Broward Sheriff's investigator involved in two-car collision

April 21, 2012 | By Erika Pesantes, Sun Sentinel

A Broward Sheriff's child protective investigator was involved in a two-car crash near Coral Springs early Saturday, a Sheriff's spokeswoman said.

The collision occurred in the 3600 block of Coral Ridge Drive at about 7 a.m., spokeswoman Veda Coleman-Wright said.

The unidentified investigator and the other car's occupants were transported to Broward Health Coral Springs Medical Center, she said.

They suffered injuries that were not life threatening. It is unclear whether the Sheriff's employee was on duty or not, Coleman-Wright said.

The investigation continues.
